

Reuters Unveils a Glimpse Into the Future of Online Publishing

December 4, 2009 at 9:03 AM EST

New Website Narrows In on Key Industry Topics

NEW YORK, NY, Dec 04, 2009 (MARKETWIRE via COMTEX) -- Reuters.com today announced the launch of its new consumer website, which marries a strong editorial voice with professional-grade information and data, powered by the newly formed Thomson Reuters.

"The creation of Thomson Reuters gave us an opportunity to re-evaluate the key areas of focus for Reuters.com," said Alisa Bowen, head of consumer publishing for Thomson Reuters. "Leveraging professional assets from across the company, the redesign has allowed Reuters.com to evolve into a platform that focuses on building deep business knowledge around key topic areas."

With a world overwhelmed by data, news, and information, the goal of the redesign was to make Reuters.com content more intelligent, giving business professionals an inside edge. The content on the new site has been organized by topics and themes to create online communities, which adjust as the world's news agenda evolves.

"Reuters.com was redesigned to provide an online touch point for the business professional audience, giving them the tools to make smart decisions and navigate market challenges," added Bowen.

The bold, new design propels Reuters into a new era of online publishing, with advanced multimedia capabilities, personalization and data presentation. Balancing design and usability, the site features:

- News in Numbers: visually appealing market data based on relevant topic-matter ☐
- Day in Pictures: the day's news with the use of Reuters award-winning photography ☐
- Funds Center: professional Lipper data for an online consumer audience
- Commentary: world-class news with analysis and opinion
- Personalize, Track and Save: create portfolios, follow topics, customize tracking
- Unique advertising platforms: introducing contextual targeting and point-of-entry packages to target visitors from search engines

The new site is a glimpse into the future of the online publishing industry, but is only a taste of what's to come. Reuters.com will evolve along side the demands of the progressive consumer in the new era of digital news.

In 2010 redesigned websites in the UK, India, Japan and China, as well as the 13 additional local language markets, will follow suit.

Reuters engaged Brooklyn-based digital agency HUGE on the site's strategic design and enhanced user experience.

About Reuters

Reuters, the news and media division of Thomson Reuters, is the world's largest international multimedia news provider touching more than 1 billion people a day. Reuters provides unbiased business, financial, national and international news to professionals via Thomson Reuters desktops, the world's media organizations, as well as directly to affluent business professionals through Reuters.com and other digital platforms.

Thomson Reuters

Thomson Reuters is the world's leading source of intelligent information for businesses and professionals. We combine industry expertise with innovative technology to deliver critical information to leading decision makers in the financial, legal, tax and accounting, healthcare and science and media markets, powered by the world's most trusted news organization. With headquarters in New York and major operations in London and Eagan, Minnesota, Thomson Reuters employs more than 50,000 people and operates in over 100 countries. Thomson Reuters shares are listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange (TSX: TRI) and New York Stock Exchange (NYSE: TRI). For more information, go to www.thomsonreuters.com.

<http://hugin.info/142273/R/1359261/331256.pdf>

MEDIA CONTACTS

Erin Kurtz

Head of PR - Media Division

+1 646 223 8149

erin.kurtz@thomsonreuters.com

SOURCE: Thomson Reuters

<mailto:erin.kurtz@thomsonreuters.com> 